COPEs: Career Occupational Preference System

This test provides the worker with a profile of the participant's interests

CASEs: Provides the worker with a benchmark of the participant's basic reading and math skills.

CAPs: Not given routinely, provides a career profile of the participant and helps the worker to determine if the natural skills and abilities of the participant match the career aspirations of the participant.

Psychological Exam: In some cases a worker will request this exam to help the SES develop a plan for the participant.
