| | its contractors. All welfare to work participants receive an orientation to the program and an appraisal of their education and employment background. Initially, most individuals receive job search services (assistance in finding a job). Additional employment-related services are provided based on an individual's education and work history. Individuals may be assigned to unpaid work experience/preparation, vocational training placements or adult education or community college programs. Program participants may be eligible for help with child care, transportation, and work-related or training-related expenses. Moreover, participants who find a job and are no longer eligible for welfare may continue to receive help with medical care and child care expenses. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Foster youth emancipating from CWS Non-custodial parent | |
| Workforce Investment Act (WIA) | California's Eligible Training Provider List (ETPL) was established in compliance with the Workforce Investment Act (WIA) of 1998 and amended by the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) of 2014 to provide customer-focused employment training resources for adults and dislocated workers. California's statewide list of qualified training providers offers a wide range of educational programs, including classroom, correspondence, online and apprenticeship programs. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ??? | http://www.edd.ca.gov/jobs_and_training/Eligible_Training_Provider_List.htm |
| Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) | The EITC is a federally administered tax credit for low to moderate income working people, particularly those with children. The amount of EITC benefit depends on a recipient's income and number of children. The EITC reduces the amount of tax a person owes, and may result in a refund. | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Families not eligible to CalWORKs Foster Youth emancipating from CWS Relative caregiver | http://www.irs.gov/Credits-&Deductions/Individuals/Earned-Income-Tax-Credit |
| California EITC | California Earned Income Tax Credit offers a tax credit for low- and moderate-income working families. EITC is designed to assist people with limited incomes by reducing the amount of federal income tax they owe.
